

Brilliant Book Based Activities!

I thought that you may like to try some of these at home. We could create a class blog recommending books/activities to each other. Let me know which ones you particularly enjoy. I will think of more for next week!

1. Read a book and change the ending.
2. Draw a comic strip to retell a story.
3. Record yourself reading a story. You could create images/art to go with the story, scan the images and use iMovie to put film and sound together.
4. Create a new dust cover for a book include a blurb to explain what the book is about
5. Create a map of a setting in your story. Select texts with detail setting descriptions.
6. Use an image from a picture book. Come up with 30 questions you could ask about the image,
7. Create text messages between characters in a book.
8. Read a traditional tale and write the prequel.
